Drop-Gate and Raised-Platform Box Trucks

Box trucks have features that reduce effort when loading and unloading. All have two swivel casters and two rigid casters, except as noted. Drop-gate trucks have one side wall that folds down halfway to reduce how far items need to be lifted to get them over the wall. Open-sided trucks do not have a wall on one side of their container, which lets users slide heavy objects in or out of the container. Raised-platform trucks have a platform that elevates the trucks' container to reduce bending and straining when reaching into the container.
